MACK'S CHARGES

good reason was that they so seldom got on base. A neat bit of feinting wiped out a Boston base runner in the second. Plank, wise from experience, would not give Gowdy anything the latter could hit, and Hank walked. Maranville sacrificed, but Plank grabbed Deal's slam with one hand and Gowdy was caught between second and third. James struck out.

Baker Duplicates Stunt.
Baker's first offense at the bat was what it was yesterday, a foul to Schmidt. This was in the second inning. James got into a hole with McInnis up. In keeping with that mutual encouragement which the Braves give to one another, Gowdy continued with James and soon brought him to control. Result, McInnis and Strunk struck out.

PETERSBURG

TOBACCO SALES ARE UNUSUALLY LARGE

HIGHER PRICES BEING PAID IN PETERSBURG THAN OTHER SECTIONS OF STATE.

Petersburg, Oct. 10.—Sales of bright tobacco at the local warehouses this week aggregated $4,538 pounds, at prices generally satisfactory. The market was very active and all grades were in much stronger demand than was expected. Buyers represented by all big firms in the United States are on the market and it is claimed by local tobaccoists that higher prices are being paid here than anywhere else in the State. Several lots of the better grade sold as high as $25 and the receipts next week are expected to be much heavier than this week.

BURK & CO. MAIN AND EIGHT STS.

straight through Plank's underpinning, landed Johnny on first in the third with one out. He tried to steal after Cather had fled to Baker and was pinched standing up by Schang's perfect throw. Barry and Schang fled to Cather in the home team's half. Schang's fly went deep and Cather had to keep one eye on the fence, lest he bump into the barrier. Plank fanned, although the first three serges were balls.

The Braves made two singles in the fourth. Schmidt pounded to right after Whitted had fled to Strunk. Gowdy took a whiff at the first base and fled to Murphy. Maranville singled to right. Deal hit through the box and Barry jumped, clawed the ball when it took a bad bounce, and stepped on second for a force.

Tries First Ball.
Murphy tried the first ball hitting in the Athletics' fourth. James blocked his effort and threw him out. O. D. Ring faded away on strikes. Maranville ate up Collins' grounder. Mann singled in the Boston fifth with one out. He reached for a wide one and caught it on the end of his sneeze. Cather forced him after Evers had fled to Strunk. Baker hit at the first in the fifth, and the fly he raised settled firmly in the hands of Whitted, who had to look into the sun to find it.

For the second time McInnis and Strunk did a twin fanning act. Plank hit two men in the sixth. First he hit Schmidt, but as the latter was skulping to first Hildebrand called him back. Hildebrand's pantomime meant that Schmidt had intentionally turned his shoulder into the ball. Schmidt slapped the next ball pitched heartily, but slapped it to Murphy on the wing. Gowdy walked again and Maranville was hit. To show that he did not care he did a couchee-couchee wriggle. Deal's hopper to Baker for a force retired the side.

Decision Provokes Crowd.
A decision by Byron on a close play at third in the second half of the sixth provoked criticism. After Maranville had come in and smothered Barry's grounder Schang fashioned the Athletics' first hit. He peeped off a line two-bagger down the left boundary. Cather, like his fellow Bostonians, always trying for a play and conceding nothing, whipped the ball to second. Schang won the decision by an eye-lash. He tried for third when a pitch got away from Gowdy.

Gowdy burned a throw to Deal.

Byron was on top of the play at third and his decision was that Schang was out. It was a close call for Boston, for had Schang been safe the infield would have been called in and Plank's jumper over the box, on which Maranville threw him out, would have been a hard ball to get hold of had the Rabbit been playing in.

Six men were retired expeditiously in the seventh, and the bases knew no tenant, save Collins, who singled with two out. Collins' hit was a tantalizing carom, which Evers took with one hand. The winged foot Collins, however, beat the throw. A moment later James caught him napping. This, too, was a close decision, and Collins growled over the decision.

Barry's Work Spectacular.
Barry turned off two ripping plays in the eighth. The Braves in this inning went at Plank instanter. Cather seared the lawn with a shot to Barry, who handled a hard chance with dexterous skill. Whitted sent another violent smash to Barry. The shortstop made a lightning recovery and threw after the ball had struck his ankle. McInnis, however, dropped the throw. It was an excusable misplay. Besides, McInnis had done some nimble and exceedingly skillful handling of thrown balls at first base. He retired Cather in the eighth after knocking down Barry's high throw, scrambling for the loose ball and giving a contortionist jump for the bag. In the eighth after Schmidt had forced Whitted the Braves tried the run and hit, but Gowdy hit a fly to Strunk.

Baker's first ball tap in the eighth was a grounder to Evers and a foul to Deal, and another grounder to Evers settled McInnis and Strunk respectively. It was in this session that the Bostonians made their only error. McInnis hit two fouls. Deal and Maranville crossed each other in pursuing the first one. Deal was set for it, but gave way to Maranville, who invaded the other's territory. Neither was sure which was going to take it as Maranville dropped the ball, falling as he did so.

A fast play by Barry retired Maranville in the ninth. Deal, displeased with himself for having gone hitless squared himself with himself by hitting a two-bagger over Strunk's head to far center. Strunk did not gauge the ball well, but he held it expertly when he did get it, and did well to hold Deal at second.

Deal Steals Third.
With James up came a play which was poorly performed by the Athletics.

BULL DOGS TRIUMPHS OVER LEHIGH ELEVEN

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 10.—Lehigh came down to New Haven today and outplayed Yale in the first half, but the Elis rallied and administered a decisive defeat by a score of 20 to 3. Cahall's field goal from the 25-yard line in the second period was the first score made against Yale this year. Knowles, who played a smashing game at right halfback today, suffered two broken ribs which will keep him out of the game several weeks, according to attending physicians.

CORNERSTONE LAID AT ROANOKE Y.M.C.A.

(Special to The Richmond Virginian.)
Roanoke, Va., Oct. 10.—Under the auspices of Masons here today the cornerstone of the new $120,000 Y. M. C. A. building was laid with impressive ceremonies. Congressman Carter Glass, who was to have been the orator of the occasion, was unable to be present. His place was taken by Harris Hart superintendent of the Roanoke public schools. The new building is the result of a subscription campaign conducted last winter. Several liberal donations were made by Northern capitalists. It is thought the building will be completed by next fall.
